

DAILY NEWS

CONFIDENTIAL

March 01, 2016

GETTY

HANKS BUT NO HANKS

● People pay big bucks to see Rita Wilson at the Carlyle. But one hotel guest didn't appreciate a free performance. At the first of her latest series of shows at Café Carlyle, the singer said that during her last run she was using a room to do vocal warmups, and a neighbor complained to reception. Wilson (above) told the crowd that her husband, Tom Hanks, went to apologize and invited the distressed guest to the show and after party. "And she just said, 'No!' and slammed the door," said Wilson.